Connect Instantly: Become Likeable within 60 Seconds, Quickly Establish Meaningful Connections, and Relate to Anyone Brandon Monaghan

There are going to be a lot of people you will meet in your life. Some of them are going to like you a lot and will turn into your best friends while others are not going to like you at all and you may have to deal with this in work or school. It is never fun when someone does not like the person you are and you might wish you could change it. But how do you get to the point where you can make a good first impression and get everyone to like you? This guidebook is going to be able to help out with that in so many ways.

Chapter 1 is going to start out with the first impression. You are only going to have one chance to make a great first impression with the people you meet. If you do a bad job with this, you are going to miss out on the opportunity to get someone to like you. This chapter will give you some advice on ways to get others to like you so you can have some success with your goals right away with the first impression. Chapter 2 then goes on to talk about being genuine. No one wants to like or be friends with a person who is fake and does not tell the truth. But how are you able to act genuine to the people who are around you. This is easier than you think and this chapter is going to show some of the ways that you can get this to happen in no time.

Chapter 3 brings up another important point in that you need to learn how to be a great listener. Often you are going to get stuck on your own stories and wanting to impress the other person with how great you are. This is just going to bore the other person. Even if you are listening, you might find that your attention goes elsewhere and you are not able to formulate questions and opinions based on what the person is saying. This is going to make them not like you even more and you have lost your chance. This chapter is going to spend some time talking about active listening and how it can help you with getting others to like you.

Chapter 4 talks about finding interests that both you and the other person have in common. This gives you some grounds that are in common and can make keeping with the conversation easier. The more things you have in common the easier it is to have someone like you. Chapter 5 finishes out the guidebook with some great tips on how to get the other person to feel important. No one is going to like you if they do not feel important or if you act like someone else is more important than you.

This guidebook is full of all the tips and tricks that you need to follow in order to get the most out of meeting new people. Put these to work for you and soon everyone is going to like you better than ever.
